After living and studying abroad for one year and a half, both in Rotterdam (Netherlands) and New York (US), this global crisis has brought me back home to the South of France. I find myself spending week after week with my four younger siblings, Nina, Michael, Jonathan and Sara, who used to be my primary models as I started out with photography. From mid-March till mid-May, we only went out to walk the dog, Ringo, and our only visitor was Sara's friend, Rosalie.
